Comments

My family loves the outdoors. We camp and drive our UTV in both the Coconino and Tonto National Forests. I would like to see our forests remain open to campers, hikers, and atvers without complicated rules or fees for use.

Over the last 10 years we have seen many forest fires in our area with the largest being the Rodeo-Chediski fire which burned about 450,000 acres. Having said this, what would be wrong with having private companies come into the forests to thin them and mill the wood? The forest service has limited resources to handle the ever increasing fire danger and this would take some of the burden off the forest service and the taxpayer.
