Comments

As a recreational mineral collector over the years I have seen that hobby restricted to where what is allowed is almost useless. Hobbyist should be allowed to collect without fear of a huge fine.

Also on a more serious matter I have seen public lands go from a asset to a liability by not allowing mining, timber harvesting or almost anything that would provide income from the land. Common sense should prevail and not a race between agencies to see who can place the most restrictions on public use.

Respectful submitted.
