I do off road riding, target shooting, hiking, camping, fishing, etc... The only problem I see happening is to much land is being removed from use through the misuse of the wilderness act. I've ridden in most areas in the west and rarely encounter other riders unless I'm in a specified OHV park.

Most trails are empty, I'm not sure why there needs to be more control. Everything seems to be working fine as it is. Please let's just continue along with what we have or maybe add more land and trails. Let's avoid the manufacturing of problems and be tolarent of everyones hobbys.

The only concern I have is all these windmills, solar farms and cell towers taking away from the beauty of the forest. Limit developement and encourage use, all types of use. Less management is best. Things are good the way they are.
